

LAC

“LAC – Laboratory of Creative Activities- Cultural Association” was formed in 1995 by a group of individuals involved in activities within diverse cultural sectors (Sculpture, Painting, Ceramics, Music, Architecture, Film, Museology, National Heritage Protection), with the principal aim of energising and promoting artistic creation in the region, particularly the southwestern area of the Algarve.

With this intention, a space was created for various artistic activities, where adults and young people have been able to initiate or develop artistic careers without needing to permanently abandon their place of origin, allowing for artists who are residing in the region to remain.

In order to develop these objectives LAC proposed the creation of a Laboratory of Creative Activities in the old jail building of Lagos. This infrastructure was organised as a centre of cultural production from which the principal facets of its activities irradiate:

- Offering support within the area of visual arts, music or other creative activities, providing workspaces where artists can develop their projects.

- Providing practical and theoretical training to individuals who want to initiate artistic activities or professionals wanting to add value to their work.

- Creating or supporting individual and group initiatives within the various artistic areas via the promotion of exhibitions, concerts, performances and conferences in order to revitalise cultural production throughout the region.

- Divulging resident artists within the area, promoting interdisciplinary discourse and contact between locally based artists, artists elsewhere and national cultural institutions so as to encourage a sharing of ideas and exchange of initiatives.

PRALAC (The LAC Artist-in-Residence Program)

Since 2002, LAC has been opening annual applications to grant studios that use the cells of the old town jail building that hosts LAC. During more recent years occupation of these studios has been total.

Although the occupation has been at a level of 100% a need has been felt to stimulate a change within creative processes resulting from projects developed until now, by promoting an increase in the exchange with other artistic realities that might stimulate new developments of the resident artists.

Having established that it is fundamental to restructure LAC's cell granting program, its name was changed and PRALAC- Programa de Residências Artísticas do Laboratório de Atividades Criativas (The LAC Artist-in-Residence Program) was created.

PRALAC will be promoting the development of projects that stimulate creative production within diverse artistic areas. The intention is to attract to the LAC space; proposals that demonstrate contemporary approaches, that establish connections to the town where LAC is located thus promoting an exchange with alternative artistic realities and inter-linking the experiences of artists from diverse backgrounds who come to develop artistic projects of any genre, be they individually or collectively owned and whose space requirements will be compatible with that which is available.

PRALAC equally aims to promote investigation within artistic areas and will therefore provide access to the documentation centre available at the LAC installations. This will energise the creation and acquisition of new documentation accessible to members of the public who request consultation.

Areas of Action:

1 – The LAC Artist-in-Residence Program – annual projects

This program emerges out of the previous Applications for the Granting of Studios and views the annual granting of cells to artists residing in the Algarvian Barlavento, with the objective of promoting local artistic creation, providing laboratories for creative output and stimulating contact between diverse artistic areas.

Access to this program can be achieved through the submission of a project that envisions the development of artistic creation with continuity.

Those interested should enter the annual applications for artistic residencies in the Algarvian Barlavento - annual projects, open every year by the LAC Board of Directors sometime during the month of December.

2 – The LAC Artist-in-Residence Program – Short-term projects

This program envisions the granting of cells for the development of artists' proposals that coming from different areas of action will fuel an exchange of ideas between local and visiting artists.

The short-term artistic residencies will have a minimum duration of 4 weeks and a maximum duration of 12 weeks depending on the requirements of the Project.

Access to this program can be achieved through invitation or annual application. Applications will be open every year by the LAC's board of directors, sometime during the month of April.
